Montu Launches Online Platform ‘Circuit’ For Doctors to Efficiently Manage their Medical Cannabis Patients

MELBOURNE, 03 March 2020 – Australian doctors can now prescribe Medical Cannabis faster and more efficiently to their patients with Montu’s new online platform ‘Circuit’.

The recently launched platform provides a streamlined process for Medical Cannabis prescribers and their patients to manage and receive access to their prescriptions. It allows doctors to maintain an overview of their prescriptions and create repeat scripts with a click of a button. This makes the overall prescription process simpler and faster for doctors, patients, and dispensing pharmacies.

Doctors are notoriously time-poor, as they often see more than 20 patients a day. The new platform introduced by Montu solves this problem, as it streamlines the overall prescription process to only 4 days between patient onboarding to pick-up of their medication from the pharmacy.

Montu Managing Director Christopher Strauch said the ‘Circuit’ platform significantly reduces friction in the prescription process, encouraging more doctors across Australia to prescribe medical cannabis.

“For many doctors, the prescription process is a major obstacle to prescribe medical cannabis to their patients. We take the complexity out and allow for a fast and efficient process, that is very similar to what they are used to with opioids,” Mr Strauch said.

The platform also integrates Montu’s nationwide network of dispensing pharmacies, which provides end-to-end visibility of the entire prescription process and avoids the need for patients who are often in pain or suffer from debilitating conditions, to have to go back and forth between their doctor and pharmacy to organise their medication. Furthermore, this integration provides patients with reduced costs and price transparency of their medical cannabis medication.

“We deeply care about the patient experience and have created the platform with the goal to improve accessibility, affordability and convenience for medical cannabis patients.”

With a background in tech-driven businesses, Mr Strauch plans to add further practical features to the ‘Circuit’ platform to equip doctors and patients with all the tools needed to best manage and monitor their medical cannabis journey.
